"A reduction of one mile per driver per day translates to savings of up to $50 million a year."

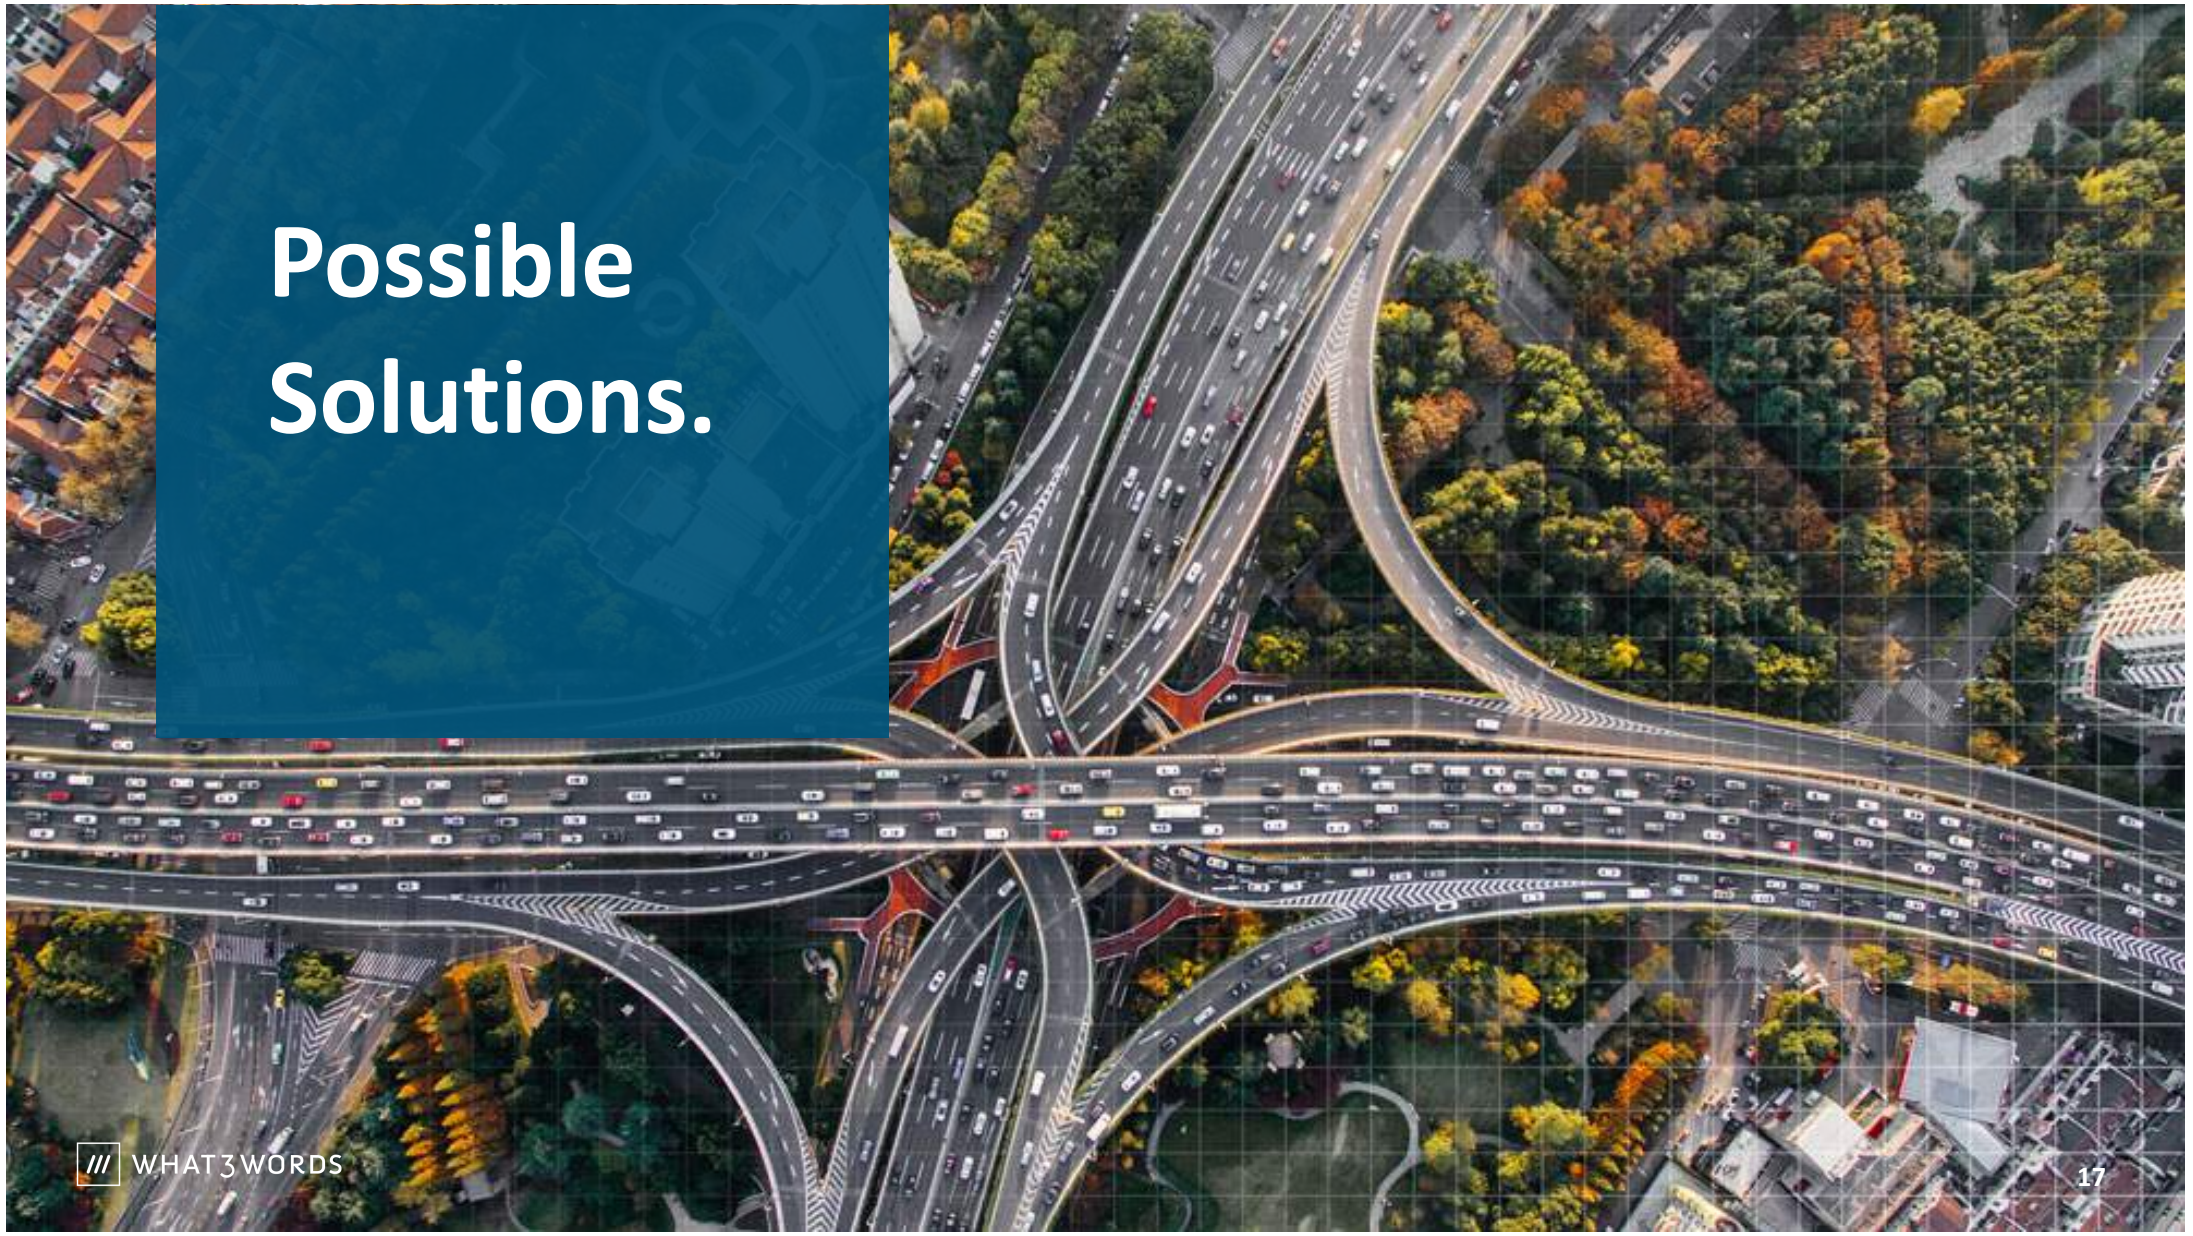
Jack Levis

Director of process management at UPS

For couriers, the ’last mile’ is often the least efficient link in the supply chain, comprising up to 50% of the total cost of the delivery.
McKinsey

Flexible addresses are critical for on-demand deliveries.

Possible Solutions.



Street addressing is expensive and time-consuming.

Landmark based addressing is not scalable.

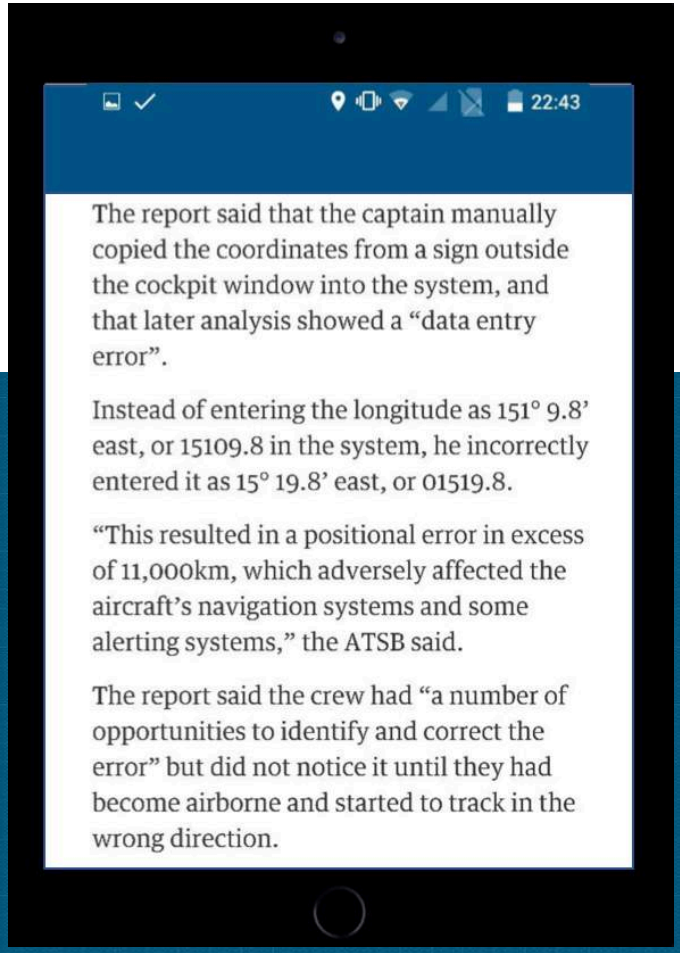
AirAsia pilot flies to Melbourne instead of Malaysia after navigation error
Crew of Airbus A330 entered wrong coordinates for flight from Sydney to Kuala Lumpur and had to divert after error was noticed



22:43
The report said that the captain manually copied the coordinates from a sign outside the cockpit window into the system, and that later analysis showed a "data entry error".
Instead of entering the longitude as 151° 9.8' east, or 15109.8 in the system, he incorrectly entered it as 15° 19.8' east, or 01519.8.
"This resulted in a positional error in excess of 11,000km, which adversely affected the aircraft's navigation systems and some alerting systems," the ATSB said.
The report said the crew had "a number of opportunities to identify and correct the error" but did not notice it until they had become airborne and started to track in the wrong direction.

Words beat numbers for communication.
