

Contents

|                                                                    |     |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Foreword: A chief's thoughts about police data and analysis | vii |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|

|                |    |
|----------------|----|
| Preface | xi |
|----------------|----|

|                                                              |   |
|--------------------------------------------------------------|---|
| Section 1: Why commanders need crime analysis and GIS | 1 |
|--------------------------------------------------------------|---|

|                                                                                        |    |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Section 2: Establishing a framework to support and embed crime analysis and GIS | 35 |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                    |    |
|----------------------------------------------------|----|
| Section 3: Tactical analysis for operations | 65 |
|----------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                                       |    |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Section 4: Intelligence analysis for empowering investigations | 95 |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                                                        |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Section 5: Enhancing decision-making with strategic and administrative analysis | 129 |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|

|                                                                                        |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Section 6: Advanced analytics, artificial intelligence, and emerging technology | 161 |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|

|                                                                |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Afterword: A crime analyst's perspective for commanders | 181 |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|-----|

|                        |     |
|------------------------|-----|
| Acknowledgments | 191 |
|------------------------|-----|