

ESRI YPN PRESENTS: FINDING YOUR CAREER PATH

Our working lives are long, and the journey is filled with obstacles that may leave you feeling lost, stuck, or lonely along the way. Finding meaningful work requires a different way of thinking about and applying our experiences throughout our careers.

THE MAP

What does meaningful work look like?

Autonomy

Cultivate self-leadership, take risks, and own challenging problems.

Mastery

Be a student of your craft and practice your skills in the real world.

Purpose

Identify overlapping problems you want to solve and be enthusiastic about the work.

THE PATH

What will you need in your journey?

Persistence

Change is constant, and adaptability is key to long-term success.

Authenticity

Discover the unique genius you have to offer the world and share it with others.

Humility

Getting feedback and experiencing frustration are critical to the process of becoming who you are.

THE COMPASS

How do you find your way toward meaningful work when you feel lost or stuck?

Cultivate Curiosity

about your work, people, and new ideas.

Explore

those things that you are curious about to learn, research, and reflect on.

Create

new work and ideas by applying the knowledge you've explored.

Finding meaning in your work is different from looking for a specific job, title, or company. Meaning can be found anywhere if you know what to look for.
